

7 February 1951

General Smith:

Colonel Grussendorf is going to call you regarding the Air Force song.

He says General Vandenberg is quite concerned that we have no up-to-date words for the "Army Air Corps Song" and in conversation with Colonel Grussendorf he suggested that a contest should be held to come up with a completely new song.

He expects to talk to General Vandenberg about this this afternoon and would like to have your views prior to this discussion. I gave Colonel Grussendorf all of our written information on this subject.
