CHRONOLOGY OF TERRORIST ACTS AGAINST U.S. CITIZENS OR INTERESTS:
1970s

Date: January 11, 1970

Location: Ethiopia

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: ELF (suspected)

Summary: A U.S. soldier serving in Ethiopia was shot and killed in a tavern in Asmara. The Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) was suspected in the murder.

Date: February 21, 1970

Location: Switzerland

Target: Swiss commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: PFLP—GC

Summary: A bomb exploded on board Swissair Flight 330 fifteen minutes after it left Zurich Airport, forcing the plane to crash and killing everyone aboard, including six U.S. citizens.

In Beirut, Lebanon, a spokesman for Ahmed Jabril's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine—General Command (PFLP—GC) claimed responsibility for the attack. Worldwide condemnation forced the group to withdraw its claim.

Date: February 23, 1970

Location: Israel (West Bank)

Target: U.S. and other civilian

Attack Type: Armed attack

Perpetrator: Unspecified terrorists

Summary: One American woman was killed when terrorists fired on a tourist bus in Halhul, on the West Bank.

Date: March 1970

Location: Ethiopia

Target: U.S. scientific

Attack Type: Kidnapping

Perpetrator: ELF

UNCLASSIFIED

CLEARED FOR PUBLIC RELEASE
BY AFHRA

01146606

Summary: The Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) kidnapped five members of a National Geographic Society expedition. The ELF did not make any demands and released the captives, unharmed, two and a half weeks later.

Date: April 2, 1970

Location: Philippines

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Kidnapping and murder

Perpetrator: NPA

Summary: Operatives of the New People's Army (NPA) kidnapped two U.S. servicemen outside Clark Air Base. Their bodies were found in a shallow grave on April 14.

Date: June 10, 1970

Location: Jordan

Target: U.S. diplomatic/military

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: PLO

Summary: Members of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) murdered U.S. embassy attache Maj. Robert P. Perry, USA, at his home in Amman.

Another source states that Perry was the U.S. Army assistant attache, and that the PFLP (Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine) claimed responsibility for his murder. [U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Diplomatic Security, Significant Incidents of Political Violence against Americans, p. 45.]

Date: July 31, 1970

Location: Uruguay

Target: U.S. government official

Attack Type: Kidnapping and murder

Perpetrator: Tupamaros

Summary: Daniel A. Mitrione, a U.S. Agency for International Development public safety adviser, and Brazilian diplomat Aloisio Gomide were abducted in Uruguay by the Tupamaros. Mitrione's captors claimed that he was a CIA agent and murdered him on August 9, 1970; he was found dead the following day.

After his family met a ransom demand, Gomide was released in February 1970.

Another source states that Mitrione was killed on August 10, when his kidnappers' demand to release 115 imprisoned Tupamaros was not met. [U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Diplomatic Security, Significant Incidents of Political Violence against Americans, p. 45.]

Date: August 7, 1970

Location: Uruguay

Target: U.S. official

Attack Type: Kidnapping

Perpetrator: Tupamaros

Summary: The Tupamaros kidnapped another U.S. official. The culprits released their prisoner after holding him for more than 200 days in captivity, during which time he suffered a heart attack.

Date: September 6 and 9, 1970

Location: West Germany, Switzerland, Netherlands, Bahrein; diverted to Jordan and Egypt

Target: U.S., Swiss, Israeli, and British commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Hijacking; attempted hijacking; hostage/exchange

Perpetrator: PFLP

Summary: On September 6, 1970, members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) carried out a number of nearly simultaneous midair hijackings.

The first was the hijacking by two members of the PFLP of a TWA B707, flight 741, flying from Frankfurt, West Germany, to New York with 145 passengers and ten crew members aboard. The hijackers diverted the plane to Dawson's Field, Zerka, Jordan, a former Royal Air Force landing strip in the desert. Their demands eventually included the release of several PFLP members imprisoned in West Germany, Switzerland, and Britain, and fedayeen held in Israeli jails.

The second was the hijacking by three members of the PFLP of a Swissair DC8 flying from Zurich, Switzerland, to New York with 143 passengers and 12 crew members aboard. The hijackers diverted the plane to Dawson's Field.

The third was the hijacking by two members of the PFLP of a Pan Am 747, flight 93, flying from Amsterdam, Netherlands, to New York with 152 passengers and 23 crew members aboard. The hijackers forced the pilot to refuel in Beirut, Lebanon, before picking up a PFLP bomb expert. Because the hijackers did not have navigational plans for Zerka, Jordan, they diverted the $24 million plane to Cairo, Egypt, where it was destroyed after the passengers escaped.

The last hijacking of the day was foiled by a number of passengers and Israeli security personnel. Leila Khaled of the PFLP was overpowered by passengers and Patrick Joseph Arguello of the Sandinist National Liberation Front (FSLN) was shot by at least one security guard when they attempted to hijack an El Al B707, flight 291, shortly after it left Amsterdam on a stopover en route from Tel Aviv, Israel, to New York. The El Al plane was the only hijacked flight that day that included armed guards among its 13 crew members and 145 passengers. Two other PFLP members originally scheduled to have participated in the hijacking were denied boarding and instead hijacked the Pan Am 747 to Cairo. The El Al flight landed at Heathrow Airport outside London, England.

On September 9, 1970, three members of the PFLP hijacked a fifth plane, a $20 million BOAC VC10, flight 775, flying from Bombay, India, to London with 105 passengers and 10 crew members aboard. The hijackers forced the pilot to refuel in Beirut and then diverted the aircraft to Dawson's Field. The number of air travelers held hostage on the three aircraft at the field or in Amman now numbered approximately 300.

A PFLP spokesman stated on September 6 that his group seized the U.S. planes because of U.S. support of Israel and U.S. peace initiatives in the Middle East.

On September 12, after evacuating their hostages, PFLP explosives experts blew up the three planes at Dawson's Field, in full view of the international press corps. The last of the hostages were not released until 29 September.

The crisis provoked King Hussein of Jordan to order his army to expel Palestinian guerrilla groups in an armed confrontation known to Palestinians as "Black September." One outcome of this confrontation was the creation of the Black September Organization (BSO) by al-Fatah in December 1971.

Date: November 14, 1970

Location: Puerto Rico

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: CALN

Summary: The Armed Commandos for National Liberation (CALN), a Puerto Rican separatist group formed in 1969, carried out bombings against five U.S. businesses in Puerto Rico.

Date: February 19, 1971

Location: Turkey

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: Unspecified terrorists

Summary: A bomb damaged a U.S. Army passenger boat in Istanbul. Authorities found another bomb in a second boat.

Date: March 1, 1971

Location: United States

Target: U.S. Congress

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: Weather Underground

Summary: A wing of the U.S. Senate Office Building in Washington, D.C., sustained heavy damage when a bomb planted inside by the Weather Underground exploded.

Date: January 16, 1972

Location: Gaza Strip, Occupied Territories

Target: U.S. civilian

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: Unspecified terrorists

Summary: Terrorists opened fire on a private car, killing a U.S. nurse and wounding a number of other people.

Date: January 27, 1972

Location: United States

Target: U.S. law enforcement

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: BLA

Summary: Members of the Black Liberation Army (BLA) murdered two New York City police officers.

Responsible for eight murders, the BLA was the most violent of the militant U.S. black organizations that arose from the protest movements of the late 1960s and early 1970s. The BLA directed many of its attacks against law enforcement personnel.

Date: February 22, 1972

Location: West Germany

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Attack

Perpetrator: BSO

Summary: Members of the Black September Organization (BSO) attacked an Esso Oil facility.

Date: May 11, 1972

Location: West Germany

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Bombing/murder

Perpetrator: RAF

Summary: One U.S. Army officer was killed and 13 other U.S. citizens were injured when three homemade pipe bombs exploded at the headquarters of the 5th U.S. Army Corps in Frankfurt. The Red Army Faction (Rote Armee Fraktion) (RAF) (Baader-Meinhof Gang) claimed responsibility for the attack.

Date: May 24, 1972

Location: West Germany

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Bombing/murder

Perpetrator: RAF

Summary: Three U.S. servicemen were killed and five U.S. citizens were injured in Heidelberg when two car bombs exploded outside the mess hall and computer center of the European headquarters of the U.S. Army in Germany. The cars carried stolen U.S. military license plates. The Red Army Faction (RAF) claimed responsibility for the attack.

Date: May 30, 1972

Location: Israel

Target: French commercial aircraft passengers and other airport travelers

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: JRA

Summary: Organized by and acting on behalf of the PFLP, three members of the Japanese Red Army (JRA) opened machine-gun fire on and threw grenades at pilgrims and other passengers arriving from Air France flight 132 at the passenger terminal at Lod Airport, near Tel Aviv, Israel, in what became known as the Lod Airport Massacre. The terrorists murdered 28 people, including 16 Puerto Rican Catholics on a religious pilgrimage, and wounded 76 others before one of the terrorists accidentally shot and killed one of his fellow terrorists and then committed suicide with a grenade. An El Al traffic officer tackled and captured the third terrorist, Kozo Okamoto, as he attempted to blow up an SAS plane parked on the tarmac outside the terminal. Okamoto was charged with the military offense of political terrorism and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Perpetrators of a number of subsequent terrorist acts—including the Munich Olympics massacre of September 5, 1972; the JAL hijacking of July 20, 1973; and the Entebbe affair of July 1976—demanded his release.

Date: September 5-6, 1972

Location: West Germany

Target: Israeli civilians

Attack Type: Hostage/murder

Perpetrator: BSO

Summary: In what became known as the Munich Massacre, the most notorious terrorist act by the Black September Organization (BSO), eight BSO terrorists attacked the dormitory of Israeli athletes at the Munich summer Olympics, taking nine Israeli athletes hostage and murdering two others. Reportedly sponsored by Libya, the terrorists demanded the release of more than 200 Palestinians in Israeli jails and members of the Japanese Red Army (JRA) and the Baader-Meinhof Gang (Red Army Faction or RAF). All nine remaining hostages were killed by a BSO grenade during an unsuccessful rescue attempt, and five of the terrorists were killed in a shoot-out with Bavarian police.

A few weeks later, West Germany released the three surviving terrorists from imprisonment, as part of the ransom in exchange for the lives of airline passengers after the October 29, 1972 BSO hijacking of a Lufthansa jetliner.

Date: October 29, 1972

Location: Lebanon-Turkey

Target: West German commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Hijacking

Perpetrator: BSO

Summary: Members of the Black September Organization (BSO) hijacked a West German Lufthansa flight en route from Beirut, Lebanon, to Ankara, Turkey. The terrorists demanded the release of the three surviving BSO perpetrators of the Munich Massacre. West Germany acceded to their demands, and the hijackers and the Munich murderers were given a hero's welcome upon their reunion in Libya.

Date: December 8, 1972

Location: Australia

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Bombing/murder

Perpetrator: Unspecified terrorist(s)

Summary: A U.S. businessman was killed in Brisbane when a bomb exploded in a car parked outside a Serbian Orthodox church.

Date: March 1, 1973

Location: Sudan

Target: U.S. diplomatic

Attack Type: Hostage/murder

Perpetrator: BSO

Summary: Eight Black September Organization (BSO) terrorists seized the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum, the Sudanese capital, during a diplomatic farewell reception for the outgoing U.S. charge d'affaires, George Curtis Moore. The terrorists released the guests, servants, and most of the diplomats, but kept, among others, the Saudi ambassador and the Jordanian charge. The gunmen demanded the release of a number of terrorists, including the sole surviving perpetrator of the Lod Airport massacre of May 30, 1972; leaders of the Baader-Meinhof Gang jailed in West Germany; a number of Black Septembrists imprisoned in Jordan; and Sirhan Sirhan. President Nixon stated that the United States would "not pay blackmail." [Quoted in Mickolus, Transnational Terrorism, p. 376.] The terrorists' demands were refused and negotiations collapsed. The BSO terrorists murdered Moore; the U.S. ambassador, Cleo A. Noel, Jr.; the outgoing U.S. charge d'affaires, Moore; and the Belgian charge d'affaires on the evening of March 2. They released their remaining hostages a few hours later and then surrendered to Sudanese authorities.

Date: May 21, 1973

Location: Argentina

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Kidnapping(attempted?)/murder

Perpetrator: ERP

Summary: Members of the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) shot two Ford Motor Company executives as they left the factory in Buenos Aires. One of the victims later died. An ERP communique issued after the shootings stated that the executives were shot while resisting a kidnapping attempt.

Date: June 2, 1973

Location: Iran

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: Unspecified leftist terrorists

Summary: In Tehran, two gunmen, believed to be members of a radical leftist terrorist group, shot and killed a U.S. adviser working for the U.S. Army Military Aid and Assistance Group (MAAG).

Date: August 5, 1973

Location: Greece

Target: U.S. commercial airline passengers

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: BSO

Summary: Two U.S. citizens and one other person were killed when two Black Septemberists opened fire at Athens airport on passengers waiting to board a TWA flight from Athens to New York. The two terrorists surrendered to police and were expelled to Libya on May 5, 1974. The culprits were originally ordered to attack a TWA flight from Athens to Tel Aviv, but those passengers had already boarded.

Date: October 18, 1973

Location: Lebanon

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Hostage/barricade, murder

Perpetrator: Lebanese Socialist Revolutionary Organization

Summary: Five members of the Lebanese Socialist Revolutionary Organization stormed the Bank of America in Beirut and took 39 people hostage. The terrorists made a number of demands, including the release of all Fedayeen guerrillas held by the Lebanese government and the payment, by the Bank of America, of $10 million to help support the Arab war against Israel. After the Lebanese government refused their demands, the terrorists murdered one of the hostages, a Lebanese-American citizen.

Date: November 22, 1973

Location: Argentina

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: ERP

Summary: A group of 15 men, members of the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), ambushed, shot, and killed a U.S. businessman, the general manager of Transax, a transmission and axle plant owned by the Ford Motor Company. The terrorists also murdered the businessman's two bodyguards.

Date: December 17, 1973

Location: Italy

Target: U.S. commercial aircraft passengers; West German commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Murder; hijacking

Perpetrator: ANYOLP

Summary: The incident began when a customs official found a gun in the luggage of an Arab who had arrived at Leonardo da Vinci (Fiumicino) Airport from Tripoli, Libya, and Madrid, Spain. Four other Arabs, claiming to be members of the Arab Nationalist Youth Organization for the Liberation of Palestine (ANYOLP), pulled out machine guns and fired into the crowded transit lounge. They took six hostages and moved on to a Pan American B707 that was loading passengers for a flight to Beirut, Lebanon, and Tehran, Iran. The terrorists threw phosphorus hand grenades into the plane. A fire started, killing many of the 59 passengers aboard, including 14 U.S. employees of the Arab-American Oil Company.

Having murdered 29 people and injured 18 up to this point, the terrorists dragged their hostages to a Lufthansa B737 that was scheduled to fly to Munich. A gun battle ensued, during which two additional victims were killed. The terrorists forced the pilot, Capt. Joe Kroese, to fly to Beirut, but Lebanese authorities refused permission to land. The plane then landed at Athens, where the hijackers demanded the release of two individuals jailed in connection with the August 5, 1973 attack on Athens airport (see above). But the duo declined to join the ANYOLP hijackers, claiming that they belonged to another organization. During the negotiations, the ANYOLP hijackers shot and killed a Lufthansa ground employee and threw his body out of the plane and told the pilot, falsely, that they had killed the copilot and three others. The hijackers then flew on to Damascus, Syria, where they were allowed to refuel. The terrorists then flew on to Kuwait on December 18. There they surrendered to Kuwaiti authorities and released their hostages, after receiving a safe conduct guarantee, and were turned over to the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

Date: January 31, 1974

Location: Singapore

Target: U.S. commercial; unspecified civilian

Attack Type: Attack and kidnapping

Perpetrator: JRA and PFLP

Summary: In a joint assault, members of the Japanese Red Army (JRA) and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) attacked Shell Oil storage facilities. The terrorists later kidnapped five people, whom they exchanged for safe passage to South Yemen.

Date: February 5, 1974

Location: United States

Target: U.S. civilian

Attack Type: Kidnapping

Perpetrator: SLA

Summary: The Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), a California leftist revolutionary group, kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. Six core group members of the SLA were killed on May 17, 1974, in a shoot-out with Los Angeles police.

Date: February 22, 1974

Location: United States

Target: U.S. political

Attack Type: Hijacking and suicidal aerial attack (attempted)

Perpetrator: U.S. citizen

Summary: An unemployed salesman killed a guard and a pilot in a bungled attempt to seize an airliner at Baltimore-Washington International Airport and crash it into the White House.

The man had previously been committed to a Philadelphia hospital for mental observation and had been arrested twice for picketing the White House.

The White House was threatened later that year by a helicopter assault and then by a fake human bomb.

Date: April 13, 1974

Location: Philippines

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: NPA

Summary: Members of the New People's Army (NPA) shot and killed three U.S. Navy officers outside Subic Bay Naval Base in the Philippines.

The NPA was founded in 1969 by the Communist Party of the Philippines, Marxist-Leninist (CPP-ML) as its armed wing. NPA death squads, called "Sparrow Squads," attempted to drive out foreign investment and provoke the government to take repressive measures that would discredit it with the Filipino population. Sparrow tactics included targeting U.S. servicemen, prior to the closing in 1992 of Clark Air Force Base and the Subic Bay U.S. naval facility.

Date: June 19, 1974

Location: Argentina

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: Not specified

Summary: U.S. and British commercial targets were rocked by a series of explosions.

Date: August 19, 1974

Location: Cyprus

Target: U.S. diplomatic

Attack Type: Assassination

Perpetrator: EOKA-Beta

Summary: Cypriot right-wing nationalist EOKA-Beta instigated an anti-United States riot at the U.S. embassy compound in Nicosia in revenge for perceptions of U.S. support for Turkey. During the riot, EOKA-Beta sharpshooters assassinated U.S. Ambassador Rodger P. Davies and his secretary.

The original EOKA, or National Organization of Cypriot Fighters, EOKA-Alpha, was disbanded in 1960. It was reactivated as EOKA-Beta and from 1971 to 1974 tried to force the issue of Cypriot-Greek unification. EOKA-Beta was dissolved in 1978.

Date: September 8, 1974

Location: Greece

Target: U.S. commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Bombing/murder

Perpetrator: ANYOLP (suspected)

Summary: After taking off from a scheduled stopover in Athens, Greece, the pilot of a TWA 707, flying from Tel Aviv, Israel, to New York radioed that he was having trouble with one engine. The plane went into a nose dive and crashed into the Ionian Sea, killing all 88 people aboard, including 17 Americans.

On January 11, 1975, U.S. and British investigators announced that tests of aircraft debris showed that a high explosive had detonated in the rear cargo compartment of the aircraft. The Arab Nationalist Youth Organization for the Liberation of Palestine (ANYOLP) was believed to have been responsible.

Date: October 26, 1974

Location: United States

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: Puerto Rican FALN

Summary: The Puerto Rican nationalist group FALN carried out its first operation of a nine-year bombing campaign on the mainland United States, striking five Park Avenue and Rockefeller Center banks in New York City and causing $970,000 damage.

The Puerto Rican FALN (Fuerzas Armadas de Liberacion Nacional or Armed Forces of National Liberation) was formed in 1974 from the remnants of the Armed Commandos of National Liberation (CALN) and the Armed Independence Revolutionary Movement. Its small membership included a number of Puerto Ricans born and raised in the United States, which may explain why it was the only active Puerto Rican separatist group that regularly carried out terrorist acts on the U.S. mainland. Until January 1975, the FALN concentrated largely on bombing banks, corporation headquarters, government offices, and military installations.

Date: December 16, 1974

Location: United States

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: FLNC (suspected)

Summary: A bomb caused a small fire and minor damage when it exploded in the Eastern Steamship Lines office in Miami, Florida. The company, which owned two cruise ships operating between Miami and the Bahamas, was U.S.-owned and had no connection with the Bahamian government. The FBI believed that the bomb was of a different type to that used by Cuban exile organizations in earlier bombings. However, it seemed likely that the incident was related to the intention of the Frente de Liberacion Nacional Cubana (FLNC), an anti-Castro group, to carry out attacks against the Bahamian government.

Date: January 24, 1975

Location: United States

Target: U.S. historic/commercial

Attack Type: Bombing/murder

Perpetrator: Puerto Rican FALN

Summary: Four people were killed and 53 were wounded when a bomb planted by the Puerto Rican FALN (Fuerzas Armadas de Liberacion Nacional or Armed Forces of National Liberation) exploded at lunch time in the Fraunces Tavern. The crowded restaurant, an historic landmark in the Wall Street district in New York City, was apparently chosen because George Washington bade farewell to his troops there at the end of the War of Independence.

After this, its first fatal bombing, the FALN struck Chicago, New York, and Puerto Rico, expanding its targets to include department stores and hotels.

In the next decade, the FALN became one of the few terrorist groups that has threatened to use nuclear terrorism. In a March 21, 1980, published communique, the FALN suggested that it would not hesitate to sabotage nuclear reactors.

Date: January 29, 1975

Location: United States

Target: U.S. diplomatic

Attack Type: Bombing

Perpetrator: Weather Underground

Summary: The Weather Underground caused extensive damage when a bomb its members planted exploded in the headquarters of the U.S. State Department in Washington, D.C.

Date: February 26, 1975

Location: Argentina

Target: U.S. diplomatic

Attack Type: Kidnapping and murder

Perpetrator: Montoneros

Summary: John Patrick Egan, the U.S. consular agent in Cordoba, was kidnapped from his home by Montoneros terrorists. The kidnappers demanded that the Argentine government prove that four of their missing comrades were alive and well. The government refused to negotiate. Forty-eight hours later, the terrorists shot and killed Egan. His body was found soon thereafter.

The Movimiento Peronista Montonero (MPM) or Peronist Montonero Movement, known by its popular name, Montoneros, was an Argentine guerrilla organization founded in 1970 to further the policies of former Argentine dictator Juan Domingo Peron. The group was decimated in the mid-1970s by the so-called dirty war carried out by the ruling military junta from 1976 until 1983.

Date: May 21, 1975

Location: Iran

Target: U.S. military

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: Iranian People's Strugglers

Summary: Five members of the Iranian People's Strugglers shot and killed two U.S. Air Force officers, Col. Paul R. Shaffer and Lt. Col. Jack J. Turner, as they were being driven to work at the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group in Tehran.

Date: July 14, 1975

Location: Ethiopia
Target: U.S. citizens
Attack Type: Kidnapping
Perpetrator: ELF

Summary: The Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) kidnapped two U.S. citizens and held them until May 1976. A private ransom is believed to have been paid for their release.

Date: August 4, 1975
Location: Malaysia
Target: U.S. diplomatic
Attack Type: Hostage/exchange
Perpetrator: JRA

Summary: Ten Japanese Red Army (JRA) terrorists seized the U.S. consulate and the Swedish embassy in Kuala Lumpur. The gunmen threatened to blow up the buildings and kill their 52 hostages unless seven JRA members imprisoned in Japan were released. The Japanese government was willing to do so, but only five of those jailed agreed to go. These five, and the JRA gunmen, were flown to Tripoli, Libya.

The JRA, a small group of Japanese anarchistic leftists, has maintained cooperative ties since 1971 with North Korea and Libya and has had a long-term relationship with the PFLP and with Syria.

Date: December 23, 1975
Location: Greece
Target: U.S. intelligence
Attack Type: Murder
Perpetrator: 17 November

Summary: Named for the date on which a young Greek radical was killed during a demonstration in 1973, the previously unknown Revolutionary Organization 17 November surfaced as it claimed responsibility for the murder of Richard Welch, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) station chief in Athens. Welch was shot and killed outside his home.

Reportedly Marxist in its orientation, this proficient and lethal group is dedicated to the severance of Greek ties to NATO, and much of its terrorist activity has been directed against U.S. and NATO targets.

Date: June 16, 1976
Location: Lebanon
Target: U.S. diplomatic
Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: Unspecified terrorists (Fatah or various other Arab groups suspected)
Summary: Unidentified assassins shot and killed Francis E. Meloy, the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon; Robert O. Waring, the U.S. embassy economic counselor; and the ambassador's chauffeur were kidnapped from their car and later found, murdered, in a Beirut garbage dump.

Date: August 11, 1976

Location: Turkey

Target: Israeli commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Armed attack/murder

Perpetrator: PFLP

Summary: Two members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) attacked passengers preparing to board an El Al aircraft at Yesilkoy Airport (now Ataturk Airport) in Istanbul. One American and three other people were killed in the assault.

Date: August 23, 1976

Location: United States

Target: U.S. secretary of state

Attack Type: Murder attempt/bombing

Perpetrator: New World Liberation Front

Summary: At about 1:26 p.m., Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was leaving, through the front door, the Senate Office Building in Washington, D.C. As he was exiting the building, an individual hurled a four-pound Molotov cocktail at him and then fled on foot. The bomb did not explode, and no one was hurt. A woman who identified herself as a member of the New World Liberation Front called the Washington Post two minutes before the attempted attack. She claimed credit for the bombing and gave as its justification the refusal of the government to release imprisoned members of the SLA.

Date: August 28, 1976

Location: Iran

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: Iranian People's Strugglers

Summary: Members of the Iranian People's Strugglers murdered three U.S. employees of Rockwell International as they were being driven to work at an Iranian air force installation in southeastern Tehran.

Date: September 10, 1976

Location: New York-Chicago, United States; diverted to France

Target: U.S. commercial aircraft

Attack Type: Hijacking

Perpetrator: Croatian nationalists

Summary: Six Croatian nationalists hijacked a TWA 727 New York-Chicago flight, diverting it to Newfoundland, then to Iceland, and ultimately landing in Paris, France. The hijackers demanded publication of a manifesto in exchange for the release of the passengers. Authorities acceded to the terrorists' demands: the communique was published in major newspapers, and propaganda leaflets were dropped over Montreal, London, and Paris. The hijackers then directed police to a bomb, which had been placed in a subway locker in Grand Central Station in New York City. Authorities attempted to deactivate the bomb, but it exploded, killing one policeman and severely injuring others. France turned the terrorists over to the United States for prosecution.

Date: December 1976

Location: United States

Target: U.S. environmental

Attack Type: Maritime

Perpetrator: Unknown

Summary: A Liberian-registered oil tanker, 10 miles off course and 27 miles off the Atlantic coast, ran aground on the Nantucket Shoals, causing the worst Atlantic coast oil spill in history. The tanker may have been run aground intentionally, according to members of the U.S. Coast Guard, who reported that a telephone message to that effect had been received from a caller who said that he was a crew member of the ship. None of the tanker's 38 crew and officers was injured.

Date: January 20, 1977

Location: Mexico

Target: U.S. commercial

Attack Type: Murder

Perpetrator: 23d of September Armed Communist League

Summary: Members of the 23d of September Armed Communist League shot and killed a U.S. businessman and his Mexican associate in Mexico City when the men tried to prevent the group from handing out propaganda leaflets.
